Work History:

■ App Designer - StartGuides

June 2019 - June 2026

Remote, Based in Alexandria, VA/ Milwaukee WI

StartGuides is a communications company that creates dynamic, easy-to-follow, intuitive mobile apps that are used by branches of the US military. These apps allow equipment operators and maintainers to quickly set up, operate and troubleshoot complicated equipment.

I was employed with StartGuides as a tenured App Designer. I was responsible for creating interactive mobile applications based on Controlled Unclassified Information (CUI) from clients and drawings from our illustrators. Our apps were Adobe based (InDesign), and incorporated the use of MSO (Multi-state Objects) and button functions. As such, I was required to troubleshoot any issues that arose. I was responsible for translating files from INDD to HTML using epub3 and Adobe Dreamweaver.

In addition to my design responsibilities, I was a facilitator between our content developers and illustrators. I frequently needed to guide content and illustration based on software capabilities and size limitations.

■ Senior Graphic Designer - Western Reserve Hospital Cuyahoga Falls, OH

May 2010 - June 2019

Western Reserve Hospital is a 100+ bed, physician-owned hospital that specializes in patient-centered health care.

I was employed with Western Reserve Hospital as Senior Graphic Designer. I was responsible for creating web and print materials and helping to ensure that WRH identity standards were met. In addition to the creation of hospital marketing materials, I supported the initiatives of hospital departments and the local community by creating PowerPoint graphics and presentations as well as flyers, banners, posters, punch cards, billboards and logos.

I was responsible for front end design and updates on the WRH website, as well as its partner websites. In addition to my creative responsibilities, I worked with vendors and hospital department personnel to find ways to cut costs on printing and production. I also worked with photographers, art directing photoshoots.
